Wynne leads Liberals to majority

Wynne-win. PC leader Tim Hudak cuts own job in defeat, NDP reel from big political loss

JESSICA SMITH-CROSS AND SCOTT TAYLOR
toronto@metronews.ca

Ontario Liberal Leader Kathleen Wynne speaks to supporters in Toronto on Thursday after winning the Ontario election with a clear majority. More election coverage, pages 3 and 4. FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Ontario Liberals won a majority Thursday, making Kathleen Wynne the province's first elected female premier and Canada's first elected openly gay premier.

It is the Liberals' fourth consecutive win and was accomplished despite enduring accusations of corruption the entire campaign.

After failing to convince enough voters of that claim, Tim Hudak, who led the Progressive Conservatives since 2009, announced he will resign.

At the Liberals' party in downtown Toronto, Wynne said the victory proved that Ontarians don't live with prejudice in their hearts.

"I am so proud to be the first woman elected premier ..." she said before getting drowned out by supporters' cheers.

She promised to lead with integrity.

"You voted for jobs; you voted for growth. Thank you for voting to build Ontario up," she said. "Elections aside, we live in one Ontario and our job is to build this province up for every single person."

With the battle won, the government will re-introduce the defeated budget, which promises a $29-billion-over-10-years transit and transportation fund and an Ontario Retirement Pension Plan beginning in 2017.

Wynne congratulated Hudak on "a hard-fought campaign" and thanked him for his leadership and service to the province.

Hudak's resignation comes after he spent the campaign branding the Liberals as irresponsible with the public purse and trying to convince voters he was the only leader unafraid to do what had to be done to save the province from economic despair.

"I will lead our party and our caucus only until a new leader is selected. But I will do so knowing the Ontario PC party remains strong," he said in his speech in Grimsby.

"Nobody should mistake this result as an endorsement of the status quo," Hudak said, adding that Wynne had campaigned on change and she "will be held accountable if she does not deliver."

Andrea Horwath's New Democratic Party suffered a major political loss. Horwath's party caused the government to fall by not supporting the government's budget, after having propped up the minority Liberals for three years.

Now the NDP will sit as the third party in a majority government.

"New Democrats are fighters and will continue to keep fighting for the things that matter most: the families of Ontario," Horwath said.

The Green Party failed in its mission to elect its first MPP and won about five per cent of the popular vote, down from its all-time high, eight per cent, in 2007.

As of press time, the Liberals had been elected or were leading in 59 ridings, up from 48; the Tories in 27, down from 37; and the NDP had held steady with 21 seats.

Wynne made the most of a bad situation

Analysis. Liberal leader defied the odds to win a majority government

MATT ELLIOTT
toronto@metronews.ca

Progressive Conservative Leader Tim Hudak announces that he will be stepping down, at his election night campaign headquarters in Grimsby on Thursday, as his wife Deb Hutton looks on. SCOTT TAYLOR/METRO

Kathleen Wynne was handed a giant pile of toxic baggage when she became Liberal leader. She inherited a government with only a fragile minority, she had to answer for a political party plagued by a ridiculous number of big-ticket scandals, and she faced an electorate that had consistently told pollsters that they'd really like to see another party in charge at Queen's Park.

She had all the makings of a lame-duck premier. A footnote in history. Another Kim Campbell story.

But then Thursday happened. A Liberal majority.

Wynne deserves a lot of credit for the unexpected success. She set the tone for the election with the budget her government released on May 1. It firmly put the party to the left of where it had been under Dalton McGuinty, with big plans for spending on infrastructure, creating a pension plan and levying a tax increase for higher-income individuals.

She redefined the old, tired Liberal Party of Ontario as something new. Something voters, apparently, really kind of liked.

It didn't hurt that she got a lot of help from opponents Tim Hudak and Andrea Horwath. Both leaders made key strategic errors that cost them big when voters went to the polls.

For Horwath, this election was a textbook example of why political parties can't simply assume their base of support will stick with them, regardless of platform and policy.

Horwath chased votes in suburban and rural ridings by dialing up populist rhetoric surrounding taxes and government waste. That did lead to gains in parts of the province, but at the expense of key bread-and-butter NDP seats in downtown Toronto.

The NDP can spin its performance as a marginal win, but it's really a loss. The party had a great deal of influence prior to this election. Now, as the third party in a majority government, the NDP's got nothing.

Hudak, meanwhile, deserves credit for running a sincere campaign based on his own principles, but that kind of sincerity doesn't work too well when your numbers don't add up and a good chunk of the electorate finds your principles terrifying.

Hudak has said he'll resign as PC leader. He's right to do so. Voters clearly rejected his ideology. Horwath is staying on as NDP leader, but shouldn't plan on making another run in an election. She's got little left to offer after a failed attempt to get power.

And Wynne? Well, she's now got a chance to govern on her own terms. Against strong odds, she's earned the right to set aside the baggage and really show us what she can do.

HUDSON'S BAY

Greater Toronto Area denies Tim Hudak's bid for power

Decision Ontario

Ontario election. Red Liberal wave rolls over region, washing away incumbents and forcing PC leader to step down

The GTA has once again denied power to Tim Hudak's Progressive Conservatives, this time with a stinging rebuke that shot PC incumbents right out of office and forced the leader's resignation.

The Liberal red wave that rolled across the region also washed away some NDP incumbents.

But it was the Tories, who were neck-and-neck with the Liberals in polls leading up to Thursday's election, that had the most to lose.

Doug Holyday, the former Toronto deputy mayor who got the Tories a coveted Toronto toehold in a byelection last year by defeating council mate Peter Milczyn, lost a rematch to the Liberal.

In another rematch, Liberal Indira Naidoo-Harris, a former broadcaster, ended the 15-year reign of supposedly safe Conservative incumbent Ted Chudleigh.

In Burlington, Conservative incumbent Jane McKenna was defeated by Liberal challenger Eleanor McMahon — painting red a riding that has been PC blue since it was created in 1999.

The area had been represented at Queen's Park by a Conservative since 1943.

In Newmarket-Aurora, a supposedly safe seat left vacant by veteran Tory Frank Klees, Aurora councillor Chris Ballard, a Liberal, defeated Conservative Jane Twinney.

In Etobicoke Centre, where the Conservatives hoped that Pina Martino, a former Mayor Rob Ford staffer, would grab the seat vacated by Liberal Donna Cansfield, Liberal Yvan Baker romped to victory.

Tim Hudak supporter Shelley Correia and son Joey, 13, watch results come in on a large projector screen in the Mountain Ridge Community Centre in Grimsby on Thursday. BERNARD WEIL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

The Tories also lost a seat to the NDP, with Jennifer French upsetting incumbent Jerry Ouelette.

It was no surprise that Wynne was re-elected in Don Valley West. Other Liberal Michael Chan was re-elected in Markham-Unionville.

In 2011, Toronto remained a provincial Liberal stronghold, with Hudak failing to build on federal Conservative momentum in the city. The Tories failed to win new 905-belt seats that PC strategists thought winnable.

After that election, a frustrated Hudak said, "I am going to work hard in the weeks and months ahead to earn the trust of more Toronto families, and to the city of Toronto I want you to know the Ontario PC Party is there to fight for you."

PC incumbents successfully defended their seats in the 905 ridings of Whitby-Oshawa (Christine Elliott), Oshawa (Jerry Ouellette), Durham (John O'Toole), Halton (Ted Chudleigh) and Burlington, where Hudak made an Election Day appearance in support of Jane McKenna.

The Liberals retained all six of the Scarborough seats. In Scarborough-Guildwood, Liberal Margarett Best, the minister of health promotion and sport, beat high-profile PC challenger Gary Ellis, a former police superintendent at Scarborough's 42 Division.

After two difficult years in office, Oakville Liberal Kevin Flynn handily defeated PC Larry Scott. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

NDP picks up seat in Bramalea

The NDP entered the election with four Toronto seats to the Liberals' 19, and emerged at press time with five to the Liberals' 18. New Democrat Jonah Schein, a social worker and community organizer, won in Davenport, a former Liberal bastion which was vacated by three-term MPP Tony Ruprecht. And Rosario Marchese, the five-term Trinity-Spadina incumbent who is the provincial party's most familiar Toronto face, won a nail-biter over Liberal former mayoral candidate Sarah Thomson.

The NDP earned a rare 905 victory in Bramalea-Gore-Malton, where lawyer Jagmeet Singh, who came a strong second in the federal election, beat Liberal incumbent Kuldip Kular.

In York South-Weston, however, the NDP lost a race it thought it could win. Liberal Laura Albanese beat Paul Ferreira, who defeated Albanese in a byelection in early 2007 but lost it to her in that year's general election.

TTC USES WEEKENDS, EVENINGS TO COMPLETE CRITICAL TTC WORK

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

Last weekend's closure of the "U" portion of Line 1 (Yonge-University-Spadina) enabled the TTC to make major progress in our efforts to replace the nearly 60-year-old signal system on our busiest subway line.

To recap, we are replacing and modernizing the signals on the entire line between Finch and Downsview stations. This project is a forerunner to implementation of automatic train control, a modern computer-based system that will allow us to run more trains closer together, thereby increasing capacity.

This is extremely complicated work that requires absolute attention to detail and a relentless focus on safety. The work can only be done in phases, based on geographic sections of the line. We are focusing our initial efforts from Union to Eglinton stations, the original extent of Line 1, as this has the oldest – and increasingly unreliable – signals.

In one weekend closure, we get the equivalent of five weeks' worth of night closures.

We know that subway closures cause inconvenience. We are often asked why we don't carry out the work at night or at a time when there are no competing events in the city. Quite simply, the three hours that we have each night between close of service and roll-out of service the next day does not provide enough time to carry out this painstaking work. In one weekend closure, we get the equivalent of five weeks' worth of night closures. And as the vibrant, international city Toronto is, it is impossible to find a weekend when there are no events or festivals.

To minimize disruption, then, we provide a robust alternative service and lots of customer service staff to provide assistance. Last weekend (June 7-8) saw a 120-strong bus shuttle in place to keep customers on the move while our crews worked underground.

This is not the only work going on, of course – it is essential to keep other key assets like escalators in a state of good repair. By adopting a customer-led approach, we have introduced new shift patterns for our escalator heavy overhaul crews, reducing the scheduled time for the rebuild of our longest escalators at York Mills from 58 to 36 weeks.

Modernizing the TTC will require more subway closures and more assets to be overhauled in the coming months and years. We will do everything to minimize the impact on customers while we continue to transform the TTC – including adoption of more efficient work practices.

EMPLOYEE PROFILE

Name: Jim Lever Position: Route Supervisor Years of Service: 31

Before I started at the TTC I was a referee for the Ontario Hockey League for 25 years. Through my time with the OHL, I met hockey legends such as Bobby Orr and Wayne Gretzky and even got the chance to ref at the 1984 Winter Olympics in Sarajevo. Shortly after, I got a job working as a streetcar Route Supervisor at the TTC and have stayed in Transportation since. What I enjoy most about working at the TTC is how well I've been treated through my many years of service here, it makes coming into work more pleasant.

GETTING READY

Did you know that low-floor streetcars are in use throughout the world, adapted to each city's need and climate? In fact, Toronto's newest vehicles are similar to those found in Spain, Austria, Germany, France and Belgium. In each case, varying weather and terrain require unique design elements, to ensure the cars run smoothly.

In Toronto, we have extreme hot and cold temperatures, as well a complex streetcar track network comprised of steep hills and tight turns. To ensure a flawless integration, a dedicated team of staff and engineers from TTC and Bombardier have been working with test vehicles, day and night, through all four seasons, to identify and solve challenges as they work to perfect the design.

Once static tests on functions such as air conditioning, heating, lighting, CCTV cameras, stop announcements, ergonomics and other components were complete, the test vehicle moved to Toronto streets, where staff examined power, braking, coupling/towing, bridge/street clearance, cameras, and doors. Any changes necessary for this designed-for-Toronto streetcar have been reflected in the production vehicle, the first of which arrived at the TTC's Hillcrest facility on May 31.

Now, the TTC is making modifications to existing platforms, stops and overhead wiring throughout the city as we prepare for the introduction of the new vehicles into revenue service on the 510 Spadina line on August 31. More information on the new streetcar is available on Facebook at www.Facebook.com/StreetcarTO, on Twitter at @StreetcarTO or by visiting newstreetcars.ttc.ca.

WEEKEND LINE 2 CLOSURE – WOODBINE TO KENNEDY STATIONS

On Saturday, June 14 and Sunday, June 15, Line 2 (Bloor-Danforth) will be closed from Woodbine to Kennedy stations for scheduled track upgrades. Frequent shuttle buses will operate between Woodbine and Kennedy stations, with Wheel-Trans buses available to accommodate customers who use wheelchairs, scooters and other mobility aids. Regular subway service resumes on Monday, June 16.

This will be the third and final weekend closure for this scope of work at this location. Subway track switches are being replaced, resulting in an improvement in service reliability. The westbound speed restriction between Warden and Victoria Park stations will remain in effect until the end of June to allow the track foundations to settle.

The TTC thanks its customers for their patience during the three closures associated with this project.

TTC UNVEILS COMMEMORATIVE PLAQUE, WORLD PRIDE 2014 PASSES

Yesterday, TTC Chief Customer Officer Chris Upfold, TTC Chair Maria Augimeri, Toronto Councillor Kristyn Wong-Tam and Pride Executive Director Kevin Beaulieu unveiled a commemorative plaque to be permanently displayed near the entrance of Wellesley Station. They also showcased a special TTC World Pride bus that is operating on the 94 Wellesley and will be part of this year's Pride parade on Sunday, June 29.

To make travel easier for tourists and residents, the TTC is offering a special event World Pride TTC Family/Group Weekend Pass for $22 and an individual Weekly Pass for $39.25. The Family/Group Weekend Pass will provide unlimited travel on June 28 and 29 for a group of up to six people, maximum four children under 19. Global Pet Foods latest to pull China-made treats

Precaution. Dogs and cats have fallen ill after consuming products, though veterinarians haven't been able to prove there's a link

Canadian-owned Global Pet Foods is the latest pet food chain to announce it is pulling made-in-China dog and cat treats from its stores, but unlike two major U.S. pet food chains that announced plans to do the same, Global's product yank is effective immediately.

"We have implemented a mandatory removal and discontinuation of all Chinese-produced treats for all Global Pet Food stores," a company spokesperson store told Torstar News Service. Global has 160 stores across Canada.

The move is welcome news to Dianne Meikle, whose dogs got sick in January 2013, a day after eating made-in-China pet treats purchased at a Costco store. "I think the treats from China should be taken off all shelves, including Costco where these were purchased," Meikle says

Veterinarians have not been able to prove the treats are causing pet illness.

Dr. Bob Perry, a veterinarian at the Dunnville Veterinary Clinic, says he treated four dogs in December 2012 that got sick soon after consuming some chicken jerky treats, also purchased at Costco.

Despite the lack of a definitive cause, Perry advises pet owners to be cautious. "There seems to be an association, so we are recommending not to use them." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

In the U.S.

- After years of complaints about pet treats, two major U.S. pet food chains, Petco and PetSmart, announced recently they will remove all Chinese-made dog and cat treats from shelves. The move is voluntary and not immediate.
- It comes after the U.S.-based Food and Drug Administration reported it has received 4,800 reports of pet illnesses that may be related to the consumption of Chinese-made jerky pet treats since 2007. Of those, more than 1,000 dogs in Canada and the U.S. have died.

Sam the Record Man sign may flash again

Toronto's iconic Sam the Record Man sign may have a new home atop a city-owned building near Yonge-Dundas Square, if a new plan is approved.

But the local councillor says the proposed building is slated for sale in 10 to 15 years, potentially endangering the long-term future of the beloved Toronto sign.

"Overall I think there are some great positives that come out of this proposal," said Coun. Kristyn Wong-Tam, whose ward includes the sign's former Yonge Street location.

"People have been asking for the signs to come out of storage."

The plan suggests the iconic double-record neon sign be placed on top of the Toronto Public Health building at 277 Victoria St., overlooking Yonge-Dundas Square. Concept designs suggest it be paired with a new sign that says "Toronto Music City," running down the side of the building.

The sign has been a political hot potato in downtown Toronto, bouncing from building to building in the years since its removal. Ryerson University bought the historic Sam the Record Man building at Yonge and Gould streets in 2007 and gently removed the sign, planning to put it on its new student centre.

But a change in construction plans plunged the sign's fate into limbo. Ryerson proposed putting the sign on its library, facing Gould Street — something that did not sit well with fans of the sign's once-prominent Yonge perch. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

BlackBerry intercepts used in mob crackdown

Project Clemenza. Police say more than a million messages were analyzed as evidence, leading to arrest of 31 suspected gangsters

RCMP officer Michel Arcand speaks to reporters at RCMP headquarters in Montreal on Thursday, where he answered questions about Project Clemenza, a sweep of alleged organized crime groups in the province. GRAHAM HUGHES/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Police in Quebec say they used intercepted BlackBerry communications to take down two alleged organized crime groups operating in the province.

The RCMP said Thursday more than one million private messages were intercepted and analyzed as evidence as part of an operation dubbed Project Clemenza.

Officials from the RCMP and Montreal Police said it is the first time this investigative technique has been used on such a large scale in a criminal investigation.

"This is the most important interception of this kind performed as part of a major investigation in North America," RCMP Supt. Michel Arcand told a news conference.

"One million messages were intercepted between 2010 and 2012 (and) the investigation also included a complex analysis process."

The arrests are aimed at dismantling two cells which police say took over after Operation Colisee seven years ago, an operation aimed at their predecessors.

Police described the cells as linked to Italian-based organized crime in Montreal.

Police said they arrested 31 people in Montreal, Quebec City, Laval and Gatineau.

Islamic militants vow to march to Baghdad

Islamic militants who seized cities and towns vowed Thursday to march on Baghdad to settle old scores, joined by Saddam Hussein-era loyalists and other disaffected Sunnis capitalizing on the government's political paralysis over the biggest threat to Iraq's stability since the U.S. withdrawal.

The militants also declared they would impose Shariah law in Mosul and other areas they captured.

Three planeloads of Americans were being evacuated from a major Iraqi airbase north of Baghdad, U.S. officials said, and Germany urged its citizens to immediately leave parts of Iraq, including Baghdad.

The UN Security Council met on the crisis, underscoring the growing international alarm over the advances by fighters from the group known as the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

World Cup revelry matched by rage as protests get violent

Turmoil in host cities. Black Bloc adherents infect crowd angered by billions spent on sport

Protesters and Brazilian police clashed in Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro and at least three other World Cup cities on Thursday, around the first match of soccer's premier event.

Just after the match started, about 300 protesters marched along Rio's Copacabana beach to denounce lavish spending on a sports tournament in a nation with profound social needs.

The protest was peaceful, but there were worries that could change as adherents to the anarchist "Black Bloc" tactic were seen in the crowd.

Violence did break out elsewhere.

In Sao Paulo, more than 300 demonstrators gathered along a main highway leading to the stadium. Some tried to block traffic, but police repeatedly pushed them back using tear gas and stun grenades.

A few protesters suffered injuries after being hit by rubber bullets, while others choked on tear gas. An Associated Press photographer was injured in the leg after a stun grenade exploded near him. CNN reported on its website that two of its journalists were also injured.

"We're in a country where the money doesn't go to the community, and meanwhile we see all these millions spent on stadiums," said student Tameres Mota, a protester at the Sao Paulo demonstration.

Meanwhile, about 300 protesters gathered in central Rio de Janeiro; police took a few into custody. In Belo Horizonte, about 200 clashed with police, some smashing doors and windows. About 1,000 gathered in Porto Alegre, with some breaking property and hurling stones, authorities said. Police scattered about 150 protesters in the capital city of Brasilia, according to a local newspaper. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. tells cops to hush up on surveillance technology

The Obama administration has been quietly advising local police not to disclose details about surveillance technology they are using to sweep up cellphone data from entire neighbourhoods.

Citing security reasons, the U.S. has intervened in routine state public records cases and criminal trials regarding use of the technology.

This has resulted in police departments withholding or heavily censoring documents.

Federal involvement in local open records proceedings is unusual. It comes at a time when President Barack Obama has said he welcomes a debate on government surveillance and called for more transparency about spying.

Primacy

"It's troubling to think the FBI can just trump the state's open records law."

Ginger McCall of the Electronic Privacy Information Center, who suspects the tactic would not pass a constitutional challenge

One well-known type of this surveillance equipment is known as a Stingray. The equipment tricks cellphones into identifying some of their owners' account information, like a unique subscriber number, and transmitting data to police as if it were a phone company's tower. That allows police to obtain cellphone information without having to ask for help from service providers, such as Verizon or AT&T, and can locate a phone without the user even making a call or sending a text message. BRAZIL READY TO SAMBA

The wait is over. Brazil kicked off the 2014 FIFA World Cup with a football-style Carnival before thousands of dancing yellow-clad fans, who seemed eager to put construction delays and protests behind them. To get you in the game, Metro has you covered with the latest from Brazil.

J-Lo helps World Cup kick off in style

Singers Jennifer Lopez, Pitbull and Claudia Leitte perform during the opening ceremony of the 2014 FIFA World Cup Brazil before the Group A match between Brazil and Croatia at Arena de Sao Paulo on June 12, 2014 in Sao Paulo, Brazil. J-Lo — who turned up for the performance despite earlier reports that she wouldn't be able to attend — rapper Pitbull and pop star Leitte bounced around a giant stage that resembled a peeled melon. Will soccer outshine the protests?

The sun rose Thursday on a tropical nation hosting its first World Cup in 64 years. Nearly half the world's population, well over three billion spectators, are expected to watch soccer's premier event and get a glimpse of the country that in two years will host the Summer Olympics.

But just hours before play was to begin, it still wasn't clear which Brazil we would see. Would it be the irreverent nation known for its festive, freewheeling spirit? Or would it be the country that, for the past year, has been a hotbed of fury over poor public services, discontent over a political system widely viewed as corrupt, and deep anger over the $11.5 billion US spent on hosting the World Cup?

"The world is going to see multitudes cheering for soccer — but also demanding that our country change," Helen Santos, a school teacher, said as she walked home in Rio de Janeiro. "The world needs to see that we're a serious country. We're not just a nation of soccer, but a country striving and demanding the government provide better education and health care. The world needs to see the reality of Brazil, not just the sport."

Street protests have lessened in size since last year, when Brazilians staged raucous rallies against the government, overshadowing the Confederations Cup soccer tournament. For two weeks, dozens of places were roiled by unrest. Whether Brazilians have moved past such disruption is uncertain.

"I hope the soccer outshines the protests, but I also know there remains a climate of anger," said Edson Carvalho, an office assistant watching 10 barefoot young men play a pick-up soccer match in Rio's Botafogo neighbourhood. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

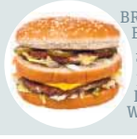
Brazil takes cup for sticker shock

What things cost in Brazil

Brazil protects its local industries by charging high tariffs on imported goods.

THE iPHONE 5s COSTS $649 IN THE U.S. BUT HAS A STARTING PRICE OF $1,250 US IN BRAZIL.

A PEPPERONI PIZZA WILL COST YOU $35 IN BRAZIL.



BRAZIL'S $6.28 BIG MAC IS AMONG THE MOST EXPENSIVE IN THE WORLD.

World Cup visitors, welcome to Brazil, land of soccer, sun and sky-high prices.

Unlike nearby Latin American nations where a tourist's U.S. dollar or European Union euro seemingly stretches forever, Brazil is astoundingly expensive.

If one's budget isn't immediately busted by the flight or the hotel, it will soon be done in by the $10 US caipirinha cocktail and the $17 cheeseburger. And those are the prices city-dwelling Brazilians saw even before the World Cup set off a new standard of sticker shock.

The dizzying prices are referred to here as the "Custo Brasil," or "Brazil Cost" — the mixture of high taxes and steep import tariffs, combined with bad infrastructure, a dose of inefficiency and a thick shot of bureaucracy.

Quoted

"Prices in Rio are absurd. I still like it ... but it's not paradise."

Maria Anda, a Norwegian artist who has lived in Brazil for a year.

Demand leading up to a big event like the World Cup naturally raises prices. But, since costs already were high to begin with, tourists should prepare to dig deeply into their wallets and not be too miffed to receive goods or services of inferior quality, said Rafael Alcadipani, a business administration professor at the Getulio Vargas Foundation, Brazil's top think-tank.

"Anything you buy in Brazil will be more expensive than in the United States or Europe, but the quality is going to be worse," he said.

Hotel rates in many of the World Cup host cities more than doubled ahead of the tournament. Massachusetts-based TripAdvisor reports visitors to Rio will face the highest prices, with hotel rates averaging $445 per night. Even the more affordable host cities will set travellers back a good amount: $457 per day in Cuiaba and $477 in Sao Paulo.

"The Cup prices are ridiculous. Everything shot up. The only thing you can buy in Brazil is a bikini, a cachaca (Brazilian sugar cane liquor) and a pair of Havaianas (sandals)," said Gillian Santos, a Brazilian who now lives in Belgium. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's Pom Wonderful news for juice maker

Sweet justice? Top U.S. court rules Pom can go forward with a lawsuit alleging a competitor's label is misleading

Coca Cola's version of pomegranate juice is not quite the real thing, and a competitor has another chance to prove it in court.

The U.S. Supreme Court on Thursday sided with juice maker Pom Wonderful in its long-running false advertising dispute with the Coca-Cola Co., a decision that could open the door to more litigation against food makers for deceptive labelling.

The justices ruled 8-0 that Pom can go forward with a lawsuit alleging the label on a "Pomegranate Blueberry" beverage offered by Coke's Minute Maid unit is misleading because 99 per cent of the drink is apple and grape juice.

Lower courts had ruled in favour of Coke because the label conforms to the law and to Food and Drug Administration rules. But the Supreme Court reversed, finding that the juice label may technically comply with FDA rules but may still mislead consumers for different reasons.

Writing for the court, Justice Anthony Kennedy said federal FDA laws and trademark laws complement each other in the regulation of misleading labels.

THE METRO LIST

1 World Cup. You say football; I say soccer. Whatever, it's the biggest sports tournament on Earth, and it finally got underway in Brazil, despite a melee of protests, strikes and various other failures to launch. The Canadian team is chronically unable to qualify for the tournament, so we have to hope for somebody else. This year's favourites are Brazil, Argentina, Germany and Spain, but why not root for Africa's Cameroon, which punches way above its weight, unlike Canada?

2 Dead heat. Another tourney that wasn't resolved before my column-writing deadline was Thursday's Ontario election. Voters seemed underwhelmed by the choices: the Liberals and Kathleen Wynne, the Conservatives and Tim Hudak, and the NDP and Andrea Horwath. Before results were in, pollsters were calling it too close to call. Of course, after blowing both the B.C. and Alberta calls, pollsters have a recent history of being wrong, so maybe they were just hedging their bets. Horwath is the Cameroon of Ontario politics, and her chances seemed about as good.

3 Right, right, you're bloody well right. Speaking of politics, this is what it has come down to in the U.S.: An extreme right-wing Republican, Eric Cantor, who is also the Majority Leader of the House of Representatives, lost the primary, which is basically the nomination, to an even more extreme right wing Tea Party Republican, the appropriately named David Brat, who accused his seven-term rival of not being extreme enough. It worked, at least among the anvil chorus voting for Republican primaries in Virginia. "It's a miracle from God!" crowed Brat, revealing that God is registered to vote in Virginia.

4 Another day, another rampage. Hardly a day goes by without another shooting rampage, the latest a protracted gun battle on the usually bucolic seawall along Vancouver's trendy False Creek. Crazed gunmen and mass shootings have become such a common occurrence, we're almost numb. But it took a photo of Danny, the K9 companion of RCMP officer Dave Ross, to bring the tragedy of gun violence home. The photo, of Danny the German shepherd sniffing his master's hat and looking around for him at the funeral, went viral this week, and will continue to haunt us in the days to come.

5 There's always Justin Bieber. It's not quite comic relief, but it will do. Notorious Canadian twit Justin Bieber continues to make the wrong kind of news, this time for getting caught on video using the N word, not once but twice. It doesn't really matter that both incidents happened when he was 14 and 15. His goose is now pretty much cooked and he's barely out of his teens . Fresh out of PR spin, he's turned to God, and was recently baptized in a New York pastor's bathtub. Well, whatever works, but I suspect God is too busy helping the Tea Party Brat to take care of ours.

Pothole vigilantism goes artsy

The perfect pothole might not exist for many people — but for artist Jim Bachor, it's one with a nice oval shape.

Bachor began filling potholes a little more than a year ago, after one in front of his house became a hassle. He doesn't just fill them with cement, though. He's turned pothole-filling into a public art project. He fills them with mosaics. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Public art, practical outcome

While his art isn't a permanent solution to the problem, it's at least a small fix, he says. The city hasn't shut down his project, and some community members have expressed gratitude.

Gerry Shaheen says Bachor and his crew are welcome anytime to fill potholes in his city. "I'll pave the way for them," Shaheen said with smirk. "No pun intended." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Designs

- Bachor uses the Chicago city flag design in his pothole art.
- Some versions hold phone numbers to local auto repair shops, while others simply read POTHOLE.
- His most recent installment — #21914 — pokes fun at the huge number of potholes that exist in the city.

Synopsis

The 21 Jump Street high school undercover cops Schmidt and Jenko (Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum) are back, but this time they're narco cops. That is until they botch an investigation into drug lord Ghost's (Peter Stormare) operation. Their failure gets them demoted back to the 22 Jump Street (they moved across the road) program. Jump Street's Captain Dickson (Ice Cube) sends them undercover, as unlikely brothers Brad and Doug McQuaid, to college to arrest the supplier of a drug named WHYPHY (WiFi). The bumbling, but self-confident duo infiltrates the college, but campus life threatens to blow apart their partnership.

Jump Street. Tatum and Hill's second outing as bumbling cops takes self-aware jabs at the business of sequels

Richard: Mark, Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum are producers on the new Jump Street film, which, I guess, explains all the jokes about how much everything cost.

At one point Hill actually says, "It's way more expensive for no reason at all."

I don't know how much the movie cost to make, but the self-aware jokes did make me laugh even though it is essentially a remake of the first film, with a few more Laurel and Hardy slapstick gags and amped-up explosions.

What was your take?

Mark: Richard, I liked this instalment way more than the previous outing.

I loved all the self-referential gags, including the brilliant end-credits that hilariously make fun of the inevitable sequels that will follow.

I credit the directors, Phil Lord and Chris Miller, for the knowing pop culture sophistication they brought to the film.

They directed the first one, too, but they've grown more confident since their Lego Movie hit, which also tweaked the audience's expectations in a similar way.

RC: The end credit sequence, which maps out the next sequels from number 3 to installment 43 — they go to Beauty School and Magic School among other places of higher learning — is probably the funniest part of the movie.

The stuff that comes before is amiable, relying on the Mutt and Jeff chemistry of Hill and Tatum for laughs. It's boisterous and aims to please, but best of all are the self-referential jokes.

By clowning around about the difficulty in making the sequel better than the original, they're winking at the audience, acknowledging that this is basically a spoof of Hollywood sequels.

It's subversive, meta and kind of brilliant.

MB: Yep. Because I can see explosions and pratfalls in any "action comedy"; it's the subversive stuff that makes this movie stand apart.

The intergender fight sequence between Jonah Hill and Jillian Bell (who is incredible throughout the film) is as subversive a take on sexual politics and "rape culture" that you will ever find.

It's these kinds of scenes that kept me laughing through the picture. The black stoner twins, played expertly by The Lucas Bros, were a masterpiece of writing and comic timing.

RC: I agree, but ill-timed jokes about Maya Angelou and Tracy Morgan were sore thumbs for me, but that's more coincidence, I guess than bad taste.

MB: I don't think those jokes were deliberate, but they sure broke the spell for me.

But then Ice Cube's comic rants got me back.

Why Australia is the perfect place for a post-apocalyptic film

The Rover. Aussie filmmaker takes to his home to film tale about a man out for revenge in a hostile world

The Rover opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Australian filmmaker David Michod made quite a first impression in Hollywood with his 2010 debut, Animal Kingdom, so a lot of eyes were on him as he chose a followup. That choice is now here in the form of The Rover, a simple post-apocalyptic tale about a man (Guy Pearce) out for revenge against the guys who stole his car.

Australia seems to lend itself to these post-apocalyptic settings.
I love this kind of movie, people stranded in a really inhospitable landscape. And in some ways it doesn't get more inhospitable than Australia largely because 80 per cent of the country is desert and there are so few people out there. It's both epically beautiful and wholly terrifying when you're out there, because you know that only a couple of little things would need to go wrong and you could die. For instance, New Zealand doesn't really have any animals, so there's lots of beautiful stuff to look at, but it also makes it a little bit dull. I realized how much I love roaming in the bush in Australia because of the fact that at any moment something that might kill you could pop out.

Of course, in The Rover it's more the people that might kill you.
In a way, it's a kind of geopolitical inversion of the world in present day, because the world of The Rover in a way sort of exists on the planet today. It just happens to be in super-violent, resource-rich countries like Nigeria or West African states where there still is an infrastructure and official organization, but it's just incredibly cutthroat, and there is violence bubbling under the surface at all times.

There is a sort of sense of anger threaded through this narrative.
I can't remember at what point in the writing process this started to happen, but I started to funnel a lot of my anger and despair into the world of the movie and specifically into Guy's character — anger at the willingness that the people today seem to have to just let the world fall into disrepair solely to service the rampant greed of a very small number of people. You look at the invasion of Iraq on a certain level, and it would seem to me that the only reason that administration embarked on that ludicrous endeavour was to enrich their friends. I mean, to cause so much suffering in order to enrich a small number of people is pathologically evil. And it's difficult, when you think about these things, not to get angry.

I love the simplicity of this story.
This story was exciting to me because of its simplicity. I was trying to figure out what kind of movie to make after "Animal Kingdom," and I decided I didn't want to try to do something bigger and more sprawling than that one, because that one was a pretty unwieldy beast in itself. I thought I would go the other way and do something that was much leaner and elemental. The simplicity of Guy's objective in the movie was one of the things that appealed to me. He has a very clear, simple kind of super-objective, which is to get his car back or seek vengeance on the people who've taken it, but actually really for him the main objective for him is to find some reason to stay alive. For me, the movie opens with him sitting in his car contemplating suicide.

How much has Of Mice and Men come up while making this or promoting this? Because there are some similarities.
I did think about it a little bit, and once upon a time I did think about the character that Rob [Pattinson] plays as more of hulking man-child than Rob is, and maybe a little bit like the character in the Cormac McCarthy book "Child of God" — a sort of hulking simpleton. The elemental simplicity of it obviously immediately evokes memories or Steinbeck, but I didn't re-read the book or anything when I was writing this. I always just wanted the characters to take on lives of their own.

It's the circle of life. The Lion King spinoffs will star Simba and Nala's cub

The Lion Guard, which will air in 2015, is set to be the first of a series of spinoffs. AFP

Starting in 2015, Disney will launch a series of TV spinoffs of its 1994 animated movie. Kion, Simba and Nala's second-born cub, will be the star of a new TV movie slated to air on the Disney Channel.

The Lion King was a smash hit with moviegoers when it debuted in 1994, bringing in nearly $800 million at the global box office. Twenty years later, Disney is hoping to prolong the success of the franchise with The Lion Guard.

The forthcoming TV movie, scheduled to air in 2015, will follow Kion and his troop of lions responsible for protecting the jungle and the Lion Kingdom. The spinoff will include some of the iconic characters from the original feature, including Timon and Pumbaa. Additional related spinoffs are expected to follow in 2016. AFP

The Penguins of Madagascar hits U.S. theatres this November. CONTRIBUTED

Dreamworks has unveiled the trailer for The Penguins of Madagascar, the first spinoff movie on the popular Madagascar trilogy.

Among the most popular characters from the first Madagascar movie released in 2005, Skipper, Kowalski, Rico and Private were given their own TV series, which aired between 2009 and 2010. Now, the penguins are headed back to the silver screen for the next installment in their adventures.

Separated from their friends at the Central Park Zoo, the intrepid birds have been recruited by an undercover task force known as the North Wind. Their new commander, a wolf voiced by Benedict Cumberbatch, leads them on a mission is to save the world from the evil Dr. Octavius, voiced by John Malkovich. The Penguins of Madagascar is due in U.S. theatres on November 26. AFP

Franco and Rogen meet Kim Jong-un in new film

The Interview. The pair star as talk-show hosts set to chat with the North Korean dictator in wacky upcoming movie

The Interview is set to hit theatres on October 10. CONTRIBUTED

Two talk-show hosts are bound for a presidential chat in North Korea but find themselves given a conflicting mission by the secret service in The Interview.

Due this fall, the comedy sees James Franco and Seth Rogen's characters discover that Kim Jong-un loves their celebrity news show.

Seizing the opportunity to land an exclusive interview and sidestep from showbiz gossip into serious reportage, the buddies set off for North Korea.

But the CIA soon co-opts their travel plans by recruiting them as secret agents and giving them a licence to kill.

Lizzy Caplan of Masters of Sex and Cloverfield plays their long-suffering CIA handler, while Korean-American actor Randall Park (Larry Crowne, The Mindy Project) becomes Kim Jong-un.

Rogen and Evan Goldberg co-direct, just as they did on This Is The End.

The Interview is set for release on October 10 in North America, one year after filming started, with global release dates in the weeks that follow. AFP

Grimsby. Four TV stars board spy comedy with Sacha Baron Cohen

Four actors seen on Deadwood, Homeland, The Big C and Benidorm have accepted roles in the forthcoming spy comedy Grimsby headlined by Sacha Baron Cohen and Mark Strong.

Co-written by Sacha Baron Cohen (Borat), Grimsby will be directed by Louis Leterrier (Clash of the Titans, Now You See Me). The spy comedy follows a British black-ops spy (Mark Strong) who is forced to go on the lam with his dim-witted soccer hooligan brother (Sacha Baron Cohen).

Now the Hollywood trades have revealed additional details on the cast. Ian McShane, formerly of the HBO series Deadwood, has joined the production along with David Harewood, who played the head of the CIA on the first two seasons of Homeland. Johnny Vegas, the star of the British sitcom Benidorm, has also boarded the project.

Sacha Baron Cohen is the star and co-writer of upcoming spy comedy Grimsby. AFP

Grimsby has also recruited Gabourey Sidibe. The actress, who broke through with her Oscar-nominated performance in Precious, was recently seen on The Big C and American Horror Story.

The spy comedy is due in U.S. theatres on July 31, 2015. AFP

Reduce Belly Fat! Increase Energy!

Testosterone levels begin to diminish in men around age 30. In fact, by the time men are 60 years old, they typically produce 60% less testosterone than they did at age 20 (a man's sexual peak). Many men over the age of 35 may already be feeling the effects of lower testosterone including:

✗ Increased Belly Fat ✗ Low Libido ✗ Decreased Muscle Strength
✗ Low Energy ✗ Mood Changes ✗ Prostate Problems and more...

Unfortunately at the same time testosterone is decreasing, estrogen levels are increasing, causing further muscle loss and gain in body fat, making it extremely difficult to maintain a healthy metabolism.

Along with a program of proper nutrition and regular exercise, researchers have discovered a group of naturally proven nutrients that can help you safely reduce excess estrogen while maximizing testosterone levels.

Ultimate Male Energy™ contains 100% natural ingredients like: Chrysin, Stinging Nettle Root Extract, Indole-3-Carbinol and Broccoli Sprout Powder to help restore healthy, youthful hormone balance by positively affecting both estrogen and testosterone production, which ultimately helps a man look, feel and perform at his best. Ask about Ultimate Male Energy at your local health food store today!

"I really had to write you and tell you about the incredible success I am having with Ultimate Male Energy ... my body looks like twenty years ago, my clothes fit great, my energy level when working out is great and my endurance so much better ...thank you for this great, great product." C.D., MB

Kendall and Kylie krazy for MMVAs

Awards show. 'We just want to have fun with it and do the best we can,' says Kendall about their hosting duties

Fresh off a teleprompter flub at the Billboard Music Awards, Kendall Jenner says she's relaxing ahead of her upcoming hosting gig with sister Kylie at the Much Music Video Awards.

"We don't want to think too much about it. If we think too much about it, we'll get really nervous and work ourselves up. We're just relaxing and getting excited," she said.

The teenage sisters — reality TV personalities and members of the Kardashian brood — say they have only seen snippets of the show in the past, but are expecting a "big, fun party."

Their first time hosting an awards show comes just weeks after Kendall appeared to misread the teleprompter at the Billboard Music Awards and joked, "I'm the worst reader, you guys."

When asked about the slip, whispering between the sisters and their manager could be heard, before Kendall replied, "Next question. Sorry."

But Kendall, 18, said she and Kylie are excited about the opportunity to host the MMVAs this Sunday.

Asked several questions about what viewers can expect, the sisters wouldn't share many details — urging fans to tune in and find out.

"We just want to make it fun. This is obviously our first time, and we're not perfect, so we just want to have fun with it and do the best we can," said Kendall.

The daughters of Bruce and Kris Jenner, the teens have been appearing on Keeping Up With the Kardashians for years, alongside half sisters Kim, Khloe and Kourtney.

Kendall and Kylie have gone on to walk runways, design a clothing line and write a young-adult science-fiction novel called Rebels: City of Indra with the help of author Maya Sloan.

Both recently attended Kim's wedding to rapper Kanye West in France and Italy, which Kendall described as "truly magical."

"I really enjoyed the fireworks at Versailles. I thought that that was amazing and romantic. The whole thing was pretty incredible," she said.

Kylie, 16, said her favourite part of the wedding was sultry crooner Lana del Rey's performance. "I really love her," she said.

The younger Jenner also denied rumours she is dating troubled Canadian pop superstar Justin Bieber, who has two MMVA nominations this year but is not listed among the show's performers or presenters.

Asked which artists they're looking forward to seeing, both Kendall and Kylie said 17-year-old New Zealand singer-songwriter Lorde was at the top of their list.

"I missed Lorde at Coachella so I really wanted to see her, so I can't wait to see her," said Kylie.

The MMVAs will be held Sunday outside CTV headquarters in downtown Toronto and be simulcast on Much and CTV.

Other performers include Hedley, Imagine Dragons, Kiesza, Ariana Grande, Ed Sheeran and the Sam Roberts Band. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sam Smith is an open book

'Just an honest person'. The neo-soul singing Brit recently opened up about his sexuality in a talk with Fader magazine

Sam Smith is fine with his personal life being public. THE CANADIAN PRESS/CONTRIBUTED

Emotive British neo-soul singer Sam Smith recently opened up about his sexuality in an interview with Fader magazine, sending minor ripples through the broad pool of music press on both sides of the Atlantic.

As Smith prepares to release his spine-tingling debut, In the Lonely Hour, in North America this Tuesday, he acknowledges that he watched to see how his comment — that the album's lovedrunk gut-punches were inspired by a guy he fell for last year who didn't return his feelings — would reverberate.

"I don't read album reviews, but I've been reading the stories about my personal life — which is completely fine," the 22-year-old said in a recent telephone interview from London.

"I was expecting it. I said what I said for a reason. And yeah, it's interesting just to read, isn't it? The whole past few years have been interesting, just to see what the world is like sometimes."

And in the hurricane of interviews and coverage, does Smith feel accurately portrayed?

"Oh, one million per cent," he replied. "You're getting my personality spot-on. I am highly emotional and also very loving and caring and I'm just an honest person.

"And I think people are feeling that honesty."

They're certainly feeling some element of Smith's forward-thinking sound, which marries his expressive, opulent vocals to elegantly uncomplicated backdrops.

3 Bonnaroo acts with a buzz

There's a mini-British Invasion of sorts going on this weekend at the Bonnaroo Music & Arts Festival in Manchester, Tenn. Here are three acts we're particularly interested in — and don't forget you can stream many of the performances if you're not one of the 80,000 down on the farm.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

James Blake

It will be interesting to see how London producer and singer-songwriter James Blake's minimalist sound will go over at Bonnaroo, where sound bleed gives the advantage to the raucous. Listen closely, though. Blake is one of electronic music's most interesting artists, and he earned a Grammy Award nomination for best new artist last year.

Disclosure

Guy and Howard Lawrence of Grammy-Award-nominated Disclosure and Smith broke through together when the Surrey sibling duo featured Smith on their breakthrough Latch a few years ago. Like Smith, the Lawrences have drawn attention since then and are seen as one of electronic music's most promising acts.

Sam Smith

James Blake took a nod for best new artist last year, and you can bet neo-soul crooner Sam Smith from London will pick one up this year. The BBC's Sound of 2014 winner is one of the hottest singers on vinyl this year and his star is only going to get bigger. Check him out while you can still catch him at one of Bonnaroo's more intimate stages.

On tour in America, Jake Bugg feels at home

Bonnaroo and beyond. Young British upstart is eager to win fans out on the road

Jake Bugg has been keeping busy in America since the release of his second album, the Rick Rubin-produced Shangri La, late last year. He wrapped up a headlining tour of sizeable theatres with a rousing sold-out show at the Ryman Auditorium in Nashville earlier this year, hit Ellen and American Idol, and did a flyby of the South by Southwest conference in Austin, Texas, last March on his way to the West Coast to play for Jimmy Fallon.

Now Bonnaroo starts a small run of festivals and theatres for Blake, and later this year, he'll open a run of dates for The Black Keys.

"I just love touring the States and seeing everything," said the 20-year-old roots rock-influenced singer with the raspy voice. "But you can't tour it if you have nobody to play to and the thing with festivals and the like is not everybody's there to see you, so it's an opportunity to make some new fans and build your fan base."

Bugg has been using his journeys to gather ideas for a third album, and the trip to Manchester, Tenn., for this weekend's festival won't be his only trip to the area. He plans to return later this year and visit Memphis, home to so many of his influences, like Stax Records.

"You know, I might go in there and it might not be happening or I might go in there and really love it and just get inspired and just want to spend some time there," Bugg said. "It's just about enjoying myself sometimes. I just want to enjoy myself and go trace back some of my musical roots and my heroes and stuff like that, and just see what happens."

This musical tourism paid off for Bugg on Shangri La as he collaborated with new friends in new locations. He found safe harbour in The Raconteurs singer-guitarist Brendan Benson's studio in Nashville. The sessions produced album standout Kingpin and two other strong songs.

"Jake's kind of a rare bird," Benson said. "He's so young, but he's got this kind of old man wisdom about him in his lyrics. He just sort of seems to be channelling an old spirit, like an old sailor from long ago or sometimes like an old blues man or something. It's a pretty strange thing to witness coming out of such a young kid's mouth."

Card countin' Affleck gets kicked out of Windsor casino

A day trip to Caesars Windsor turned into a dark night for Ben Affleck last month.

According to Radar Online, the 41-year-old actor took a break from filming Batman v. Superman in Detroit to hit the Canadian casino on May 31. "He sat down and played for roughly 20 minutes before security heard he was there. They made the dealers stop what they were doing and asked him to leave. Ben seemed pretty mad," a source told Radar.

Affleck is a well-known card shark, having been banned from casinos in Las Vegas for counting cards; his reputation appears to have preceded him at Caesars. METRO

Pippa embarks on bike race across this side of the pond

MELINDA TAUB
Metro World News in New York City

Next time you're driving in America, glance at the bike lane. Do you see a lovely butt and very shiny hair? You may be sharing the road with a princess-adjacent socialite. Beginning June 15, Pippa Middleton is biking across America.

Pippa and her brother James Middleton are participating in the Race Across America, a cross-country bicycle race from Oceanside, Calif., to Annapolis, Md.

They'll be part of an eight-person relay team with their friend James Matthews, raising money for the foundation named for James' brother Michael Matthews. Michael Matthews passed away at the age of 22 while descending from Mount Everest. The foundation begun in his name raises money for education for poor children around the world. If you want to cheer on the Middletons, I would aim for the nice flat Illinois bit to see her at her best. I imagine the Rockies are terrible for hair shininess.

Bieber says I love you, one deleted Instagram photo at a time

Social media is the bane of the fickle heart, as Justin Bieber is proving with his erratic postings pertaining to on-again, off-again girlfriend Selena Gomez.

While it has seemed that the couple had finally split for good in recent months, Bieber doesn't seem so sure.

Just this week, he posted a close-up photo of the two in an embrace with the caption, "Our love is unconditional."

Suggesting a tentative Romeo, he quickly deleted the posting — but not before many of his 16 million Instagram followers screen-grabbed it and re-posted it.

TIRED?
Middle-Age Energy Booster

#65 NPN 80044126

Doctors on the Dr. Oz TV Show said that the most frequent complaint they get is "Being Very Tired", some call it fatigue. They have no energy or interest to do anything. More food is not the answer. Drugs are not the answer either as the Johns Hopkins Medical School puts it: "The fact is, all medicines, whether OTC or prescription, carry some risk". It needs a "key" to rejuvenate your own natural systems that fell asleep. Bell provides that key with: Selenium, spermine and spermidine, which are polyamines found in radishes, cucumbers and oats as well as all human cells. Nothing could be more natural than topping off that supply. There is no risk. The Wayne State University researched these ingredients for years and Bell guarantees your satisfaction. It is all right to be skeptical and for that reason we show a few results below and have hundreds more, if you go on our website under #7 Erosyn, which has exactly the same ingredients. This rejuvenation means that most men and women may have youthful feelings again for their partner. Those who want it can resume their intimate relationship. We supply the proof that it works. If incontinence plays a role: McMaster University says that 65% of middle-aged women suffer with incontinence and this is the main reason why many withdraw from intimacy. This can be overcome within days by drinking the Bell Bladder Control Tea #4b available in the same stores as Middle-Age Energy Booster. No more rushing to the bathroom and no padding or diapers needed anymore. Many people wrote we changed their lives.

■Bell Middle Age Energy Booster changed our lives. All I can say is am very satisfied and so is my lovely wife. I am so happy I have my youthful energy back. My wife thanks you too. Raoul Martin, 52, Woodstock, ON ■I should have started using Bell Middle-Age Energy Booster years ago, when I noticed things were starting to slack off. The results were much better than I ever hoped for. David Buckley, 42, Peterborough, ON ■Being in my forties I felt a loss of energy and zest for life. I have tried every product on the market. This Bell Middle-Age Energy Booster is the best preparation for aging people. A. J. Carisse, 44, Fredericton, NB

Pink is the new white when it comes to casual back deck sipping wine. Rosé has been the warm weather go-to for Europeans for years and Canada is starting to catch up.

Sadly, our opinion of blush wines has been influenced by white zinfandel: a popular, but polarizing, version that's typically confectionary and usually sweet (most rosé is dry). Though pleasant enough, their reputation as a simple tipple for those new to wine hasn't done classic rosé styles any favours.

A rosé's pink hue comes from dark grape skins coming into contact for a short while with the juice. The longer they're together, the darker the wine.

Spain has a history of rosé production using indigenous grape varietals. The Marqués de Cáceres 2013 Rosado ($13.95 - $16.29) is made from tempranillo and its balance of juicy, berry fruit with a refreshing dryness is a benchmark. As well as tasting great, rosé wines are fantastic with food — especially if the dish is eclectic or has an aggressive, dominating flavour.

Grilled Caramelized Onion and Feta Pizza. Don't limit this family favourite to a hot oven. It can easily be made in your backyard

Onions are a bit of a reflex buy for many. Every time these people go to the grocer they always buy a bag of onions. They're a kitchen staples so you must always be about to run out, right? It's a good theory. But if that was the case, you wouldn't currently have 15 pounds of onions on the counter.

That's where this grill-friendly way of using a whole mess of caramelized onions comes in. The pizza is topped with onions and garlic, spiked with caraway seeds and golden raisins, finished with roasted red peppers, pine nuts, and crumbled feta for a kind of Middle Eastern take on grilled pizza

Ingredients

- 20-oz ball purchased pizza crust
- 2 tbsp butter
- 2 medium yellow onions, thinly sliced
- 1/3 cup golden raisins
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tbsp caraway seeds
- 12-oz jar roasted red peppers, drained and sliced
- Olive oil
- 1/3 cup pine nuts
- 1/2 cup crumbled feta cheese

1. Set the pizza crust, in the bag, on the counter to come to room temperature.

2. Meanwhile, in large, heavy pot, such as a cast-iron Dutch oven, over medium heat, melt the butter. Add onions and cook, stirring often, for 20 minutes. Stir in raisins, garlic and caraway seeds, then cook another 3 minutes, or until onions are significantly reduced and caramelized. Stir in the red peppers, then transfer the mixture to a bowl and set aside.

3. When the onions are done, heat the grill to medium-high. On a lightly floured counter, roll the pizza dough out to a 14-inch round. Brush the top of the dough with oil, then transfer it to a large plate or platter for carrying it to the grill. Have your remaining ingredients prepared, then bring everything to the grill.

4. Flip the dough onto the grill, oiled side down, and cook for 5 minutes, or until the bottom is lightly browned and puffed. Reduce the heat to medium-low, then brush the top of the dough with oil. Use tongs to flip the dough.

5. Spread the onion mixture evenly over the crust, then sprinkle it with pine nuts and feta. Cover the grill and cook for 4 to 6 minutes, or until the bottom is lightly browned and the feta is softened. Serve immediately.

Neymar's brace keeps party jumping in Brazil

World Cup. Hosts open tournament with 3-1 win; Croatia shaken by controversial penalty

Neymar gave Brazil a winning start to its home World Cup, scoring twice to lead the host nation to an unconvincing 3-1 victory over Croatia in the opening game on Thursday.

In his 50th match with Brazil, the 22-year-old forward scored a goal in each half to help the hosts survive an early scare and escape disaster in front of a packed Itaquerao Stadium after Croatia had taken an early lead.

Marcelo found his own net while trying to clear a low cross by Ivica Olic in the 11th minute, but Neymar then showed why the nation's high hopes are all pinned on him.

He equalized in the 29th minute, clearing a defender in midfield before making a run toward the edge of the area and firing a perfectly placed low shot that went in off the post.

The game turned on a controversial penalty awarded by Japanese referee Yuichi Nishimura in the 71st minute when striker Fred went down inside the area under minimal contact from defender Dejan Lovren.

Neymar scored from the spot for his 33rd goal with Brazil. The Barcelona star got a standing ovation when he was substituted near the end of the match.

"It's important to start these tournaments with the right foot, with a victory," Neymar said. "I'm happy that I got to score, but the entire team deserves credit. We maintained our calm and showed we could battle back."

The Croatians were furious.

"If that was a penalty, we should be playing basketball. Those kinds of fouls are penalized there," Croatia coach Niko Kovac said.

"That is shameful, this is not a World Cup referee. He had one kind of criteria for them and another for us. The rules were not the same," Kovac said.

As Croatia searched desperately for an equalizer, Oscar added to the lead in the first minute of injury time with a toe poke from just outside the penalty area.

Croatia had a few good chances toward the end and had a goal disallowed in the 83rd after the referee ruled Olic had fouled Brazil goalkeeper Julio Cesar.

The host nation hasn't lost in the opening match in the last nine World Cups. South Africa was held by Mexico to a 1-1 draw four years ago.

A draw would have been a huge disappointment for Brazil, which had won its opening match the last eight times. The five-time champion entered the home tournament having won 15 of its last 16 games, including five in last year's Confederations Cup, the warm-up tournament it won. The team hadn't been held to a draw in the opener since a 1-1 result against Sweden in the 1978 World Cup in Argentina.

Ronaldo ices knee, walks off practice

Game leg. Portugal's star striker's tendinitis may hinder his game during Brazil World Cup matches

Cristiano Ronaldo cut short a training session with Portugal Thursday, leaving the field with an ice pack over his left knee — indicating that tendinitis may still be bothering the star forward.

Ronaldo trained with the rest of the team for about 15-20 minutes doing physical exercises but then did not take part in the rest of the session with full ball drills.

Instead, he stretched on his own and signed a few shirts for fans before going to sit on the bench. When he left, he had an ice pack over his left knee.

Ronaldo has been bothered by left leg injuries ahead of the World Cup, and was sidelined for two weeks with tendinitis in the knee and a thigh problem.

However, Portugal midfielder Joao Moutinho said there was nothing to worry about concerning Ronaldo's health.

"Ever since he started to train with us he has been 100 per cent like the rest of us," Moutinho said. "Everything is fine with him but there is some caution, not only with him. Today many other players were using ice as well. There is nothing to worry about. The ice is normal after training."

Backed out of World Cup

Doc slams club for Ribery's withdrawal

France's team doctor has criticized Bayern Munich for the way the club handled a lingering back injury that ruled star winger Franck Ribery out of the World Cup.

Ribery appeared to have made progress from a chronic lower back injury that had plagued him for weeks, only to be ruled out of the competition last Friday when he pulled up in training. It came just three days before France flew to Brazil, depriving coach Didier Deschamps of his most experienced player and most dangerous attacker.

"When I examined him and we did tests with the X-ray and scans, I was very reassured. There was no reason why he wouldn't play in the World Cup," France doctor Franck Le Gall said Thursday. "We have some explanations for his pain. However, he didn't find a way ... we didn't find the way for his pains to cease or for him to play through his discomfort."

Le Gall was asked if France had considered treating Ribery's injury by injection. It was an option that appeared to be ruled out by the France team's medical staff, even though, Le Gall said, Bayern could be regularly treating its players with jabs. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kaymer leads after Day 1

Martin Kaymer shot a 5-under 65 to take a three-shot lead after the opening round of the U.S. Open. He birdied three of the last five holes at Pinehurst No. 2 on Thursday to break out of a tie with Graeme McDowell, Kevin Na and Brendon de Jonge. STREETER LECKA/GETTY IMAGES

Buehrle no longer invincible for Jays

Battle of the birds.
Orioles win first game of series between AL East rivals behind Gausman's strong start

On Thursday
4	2
Orioles	Blue Jays

Kevin Gausman gave up one run over six innings and Delmon Young homered as the Baltimore Orioles beat Mark Buehrle and the Toronto Blue Jays 4-2 on Thursday night.

Nick Markakis had two hits and an RBI for the Orioles, who moved within 3 1/2 games of first-place Toronto in the AL East.

Gausman (2-1) allowed five hits, walked three and struck out three in his second consecutive solid outing. The 2012 first-round draft pick stymied Oakland on June 7 after being recalled from Triple-A Norfolk and now appears to be a fixture in the starting rotation.

Zach Britton worked the ninth for his sixth save. The victory wasn't secured, however, until a replay review confirmed the final out on a double-play grounder.

Buehrle (10-3) yielded four runs and eight hits in 6 1/3 innings to lose his second straight start following a six-game winning streak. The left-hander allowed three runs or fewer in 12 of his previous 13 starts.

Toronto has lost three straight and five of six.

Baltimore needed just two at-bats to take a 2-0 lead. Markakis led off with a single and the seldom-used Young sent a changeup into the seats in left field, his first home run since April 8 and only the fourth against Buehrle this season.

It was the eighth straight game in which Toronto allowed the opposition to score first.

Down 3-0, Toronto got a run in the fifth when Juan Francisco doubled and came home on a single by Melky Cabrera.

That would be the only flaw in an otherwise solid performance by Gausman, who was 0-1 with a 6.14 ERA in his previous four appearances against Toronto. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CFL ratification votes underway

CFL players voted on their tentative agreement with the league Thursday.

While the players had until 8 p.m. ET to vote, the CFL board of governors will hold its ratification vote Friday afternoon.

A majority of players — 50 per cent plus one — on six of the nine CFL teams must support the five-year deal for it to be accepted. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Don't get uptight if someone says something you disagree with. Stay calm, tell your side of the story and then listen to theirs. Don't be surprised if what they say makes sense.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You'll be in an impulsive mood today and there is a danger you might fall out with someone you should be on good terms with. Don't start a war of words just because you don't care for the way they do business.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Don't let others dictate to you because once they get the idea that you can be ordered about they will make your life a misery. Make sure they know you can bite as well as you bark.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
If you allow yourself to be talked into doing something you don't want to do today, you will regret it for weeks or months to come. There's no easy way to tell people you can't help them. Just say "no".

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
The full moon could have you doing things and saying things that will cause problems of a romantic nature. Handle affairs of the heart with a great deal of care over the next 48 hours.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Because today's full moon cuts across a powerful angle of your chart you must be ready for those around you to overreact in some way. On the home front there will be times when logic goes out the window.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You seem a bit excitable but that's OK — most likely nothing bad will come of it. In fact this looks like being a good time for you, especially if you are traveling or planning a vacation.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
There is no reason you should not go out and have a good time but that does not mean you have to buy drinks for everyone. You have been far too generous of late.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
The full moon in your sign could see you acting out of character today and you may even make a fool of yourself. But what does it matter? It's all good, clean fun.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You may not be able to make sense of what is happening at the moment but don't worry. You aren't the only one who is having a hard time getting a grip on reality. Once the full moon fades all will be revealed.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
The more you socialize now, the more likely it is you'll learn something to your advantage. Before the day is over you will be good friends with someone who shares your beliefs, ideals and taste for adventure.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Resist the temptation to tell an employer what you really think of them today. It won't work out right. If you cannot say something nice then it might be wise to say nothing at all. Think of your future. SALLY BROMPTON
